

animals for their wisdom, strength or power, we are asking them to share with us their secrets, life strategy, and the design that offers them the edge that elevates them to a place of security and certainty. We are seeking the unique trait gifted by Spirit that ensures the survival of their kind. Medicine describes the symbolic wisdom radiated by an animal that may promise learning, healing and manifestation.

Why do people get signs from animals?

To reconnect, once again, with the energies of Mother Earth. We all yearn to take control of our lives and to make a difference, to believe in ourselves, to have faith in our ability to heal, and to realise our true potential. The realisation that the Earth Mother can nurture within us the wisdom to make our healing possible, opens a pathway to power for those who look to her for confirmation.

Do you eat animals?

In nature, animals eat animals. People are animals who eat other animals. It is obvious though that we eat meat by choice. Our teeth have evolved to have molars – teeth designed to snip and crush, and grind vegetation – similar to a sheep or deer. We don't have prominent canines like a cat or wolf, which are designed to rip and tear. Carnivores do not have obvious molars, they do not chew their food; they rip, tear and swallow and eat quickly, fighting for their right to eat their fill. Cattle, sheep and horses etc. graze constantly, some ruminating for hours, absorbing their feed at their leisure.

I do not think that people are designed to eat meat, it is a learned ability. I was raised a strict vegetarian, however I do occasionally eat meat. If I'm out for dinner and meat is served, I will eat it and usually enjoy it at the time, but I never crave it. The main thing that stops me embracing the whole meat eating process fully is the way in which the animals are bred, raised and harvested – it really raises my hackles. However, as far as what I think about eating meat, each to their own.
